New Book The Sentinel (A Jane Harper Horror Novel) - video ...

Jane Harper entered the pages as an interesting character. She would soon lend herself to a sarcastic wit that I identified with. She at times becomes self deprecating in a humorous sense that made this character real. Introspective but not "poor me", begging for a Freudian couch. A real person in an unreal situation. I like that.

The Sentinel (A Jane Harper Horror Novel) by Jeremy Bishop ...

The Lost Man is Jane Harper's third consecutive marvel... and, against long odds, her most marvellous yet, pitting brother against brother, man against nature, reader against the clock. What an extraordinary novel: part family drama, part indelible ode to the outback - a thriller as forceful and atmospheric as a brewing storm. Harper works ...

The Lost Man by Jane Harper | Waterstones

Jane Harper is a strong female character and lead - courageous, witty, and a sharp sensibility. It's only 8 hours long, though it felt shorter. Beresford's narration is best when she speaks for 3 of the main female characters and maybe 2 of the men.

Loved book 2 in this series. I would suggest that you read book one (the Sentinel) before you pick up book 2. Jane Harper is a bad ass lady that is really hard core thanks to her upbringing. She is likeable because she cares about her friends.

The Raven (Jane Harper Horror Novels, #2) by Jeremy Bishop

A thrilling new mystery by the great Jane Harper Readers have come to associate Harper with complex character-based mysteries set in strongly evocative and quintessentially Australian settings. In The Survivors, the action takes place in a (fictional) small coastal town in Tasmania.
